

Utility Products Insurance

Sloan Mason Insurance Services can now offer an integrated approach to risk management for utility industry products suppliers, including those products for sewer and water main work, as well as the oil and natural gas industry.

Each client has a team of skilled professionals providing customer-focused underwriting, loss control and claims needs along with account relationship managers who facilitate communications on all aspects of the account.

Loss Control

Loss control personnel who specialize in the utility industry examine issues that impact safety – including management practices, physical hazards and regulatory compliance. This allows the underwriting team to customize strategies to reduce and eliminate costly risks and enhance workplace safety.

Claims Specialists

Each Insured benefits from Sloan Mason's claims liaison who serves as a central point of contact for client, broker, claims, underwriting and loss control teams. This approach expedites management of claims issues and mitigates losses by helping our clients to prevent smaller claims from escalating. Efficient and effective resolution is at the heart of Sloan Mason's integrated approach to claims.

An online claims reporting system makes it fast and convenient for clients to report claims 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Once a claim is reported, this approach brings to bear high quality investigative, legal, medical and accounting expertise early in the claims process when it can have the greatest impact for our insureds.
